John Desjardins Climbs Crows Nest Mountain.

Interesting Record of Former Visitors Found at the Summit.

John Desjardins, a resident of Coleman since October last, climbed the Crows Nest Mountain on June 24th, making the ascent from the north side. At the summit he found two small stone monuments, the western one of which contained a bottle from which he extracted papers containing the following records left by former visitors. Mr. Desjardins did not make a complete copy of the papers, but appears to have a fairly complete record of the different parties who, in addition reached the summit:

June 28, 1904.—Four guides from Calgary.

August 29, 1907.—Laura E.
Marshall, Reliance, Alta.; Helen
H. Hatch, Lethbridge, Alta.; J.
O. Hyde, Lethbridge, Alta.; P.
D. McTavish, Calgary; Alex. M.
Gordon, Lethbridge, Alta.; Gilbert Marshall, Reliance, Alta.

Aug. 23, 1908.—Left McLaren's
Camp 6.15 a.m., reached summit 12.05.

August 8, 1915.—F. W. God-sall, Cowley, Alta., A.C.C.

A miner's pick stuck in the east monument looked as if it had been used for a flagstaff, as the tattered remains of a Union Jack were in evidence.
A quantity of weatherbeaten half-inch rope, left by some former visitor, was still there.

Mr. Desjardins says the Crow is easily climbed and that the magnificent view would more than repay the effort.

The Canada Food Board has advised British Columbia milk manufacturers that as no more export orders for milk for the Allies will be given them, they will be able to make condensed milk for local consumption only and the balance of their production must be made in cheese.

ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH

UNION PICNIC

The annual treat for the senior children of St. Alban's church took place on Tuesday in company with the Church of England children from Blainmore. The weather was ideal and all the kiddies came back saying that they had been having the time of their lives. Mr. F. Barrington, of the Coleman hotel, kindly conveyed the children to their destination, making three trips in their behalf.

PRESERVATION

On Monday evening last Miss Van-bridger was the recipient of a presentation by members of the congregation as a mark of their esteem and recognition of the good work she has done as senior Sunday School Superintendent and president of the Women's Missionary Society. A pleasant evening was spent in the Parish Hall. The Rev. H. Clay, who made the presentation, said how sorry they were to lose Miss Vanbridger's valuable help.
Mr. Harry W. Clark, as people's warden, also spoke of the esteem and respect felt for Miss Vanbridger and said
how much she would be missed by all.
Miss Vanbridger, replying, thanked the donors and said she hoped that every success would continue to attend the work she was relinquishing.

K.P. SERVICE

There was a good attendance at Sunday evening when the K.P.s attended for their annual service and memorial. The church was suitably decorated with flags, and the service throughout was of a special character.
The anthem "Give Peace to Our Tired
Souldiers" was well-rendered by the choir.
Miss Disney presided at the organ and was ably assisted by Mrs. Jones (Violet). The service was conducted by the Rev. H. Clay, who made appropriate reference to K.P. ideals and to the death which had closed the life of A.
Joseph whom they were now memorializing.

SUNDAY MEET

Holy Communion at 8 a.m. Holy Communion Service at 10.30 a.m. No evening service on this date.

WEDDING BELLS

OUIMETTE McPHERSON

A very pretty wedding took place on Sunday morning, July 7th, at the residence of Mr. J.
Stanley Pizer, when Mr. Charles Ouimette, son of W. L. Ou-imette, and Miss Leona McPherson, late of Springhill, N.S., were united in holy matrimony,
the Rev. D. K. Allan officiating.
The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. J. McPherson, of Fernie, B.C., looked very sweet in a travelling suit of Japan blue taffeta, with large picture hat and carried a bou-quet of pink moss rosebuds and ferns. The couple stood beneath a huge cluster of roses, with which the house was decorated.
Little Miss Grace Pizer, carrying a spray of roses, acted as ring bearer. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a dainty wedding breakfast, after which the happy couple left on the westbound train for Sko-kane, Seattle, and other coast cities on a honeymoon trip.

The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond set platinum pendant and chain.

The best wishes of a host of friends will be extended to this popular young couple, with whom The Bulletin heartily joins.

THE PROPER WAY TO USE COPENHAGEN CHEWING TOBACCO

Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco is entirely different from the ordinary "plug" or "fine cut". It is made of the best, old, rich, high flavored tobacco.

Being in small grains, it imparts its strength and flavor more freely and fully than tobacco in the usual form.

For this reason, Copenhagen is not chewed but is placed in the mouth between the lower lip and the gum.

A small pinch is all that is necessary to thoroughly satisfy, and those who are using "Copenhagen" for the first time should take care to use only a small pinch otherwise "Copenhagen" will be enough to have too much tobacco strength.

"It's the most economical chew."

The Story of Russia's Collapse

Secret Service Man Throws Light
On Amazing Part Played by Rasputin

"Rasputin, the Rascal Monk," by William Le Queux, the author of the astonishing light upon the collapse of Russia says the Toronto News in a review of the work. The author is under no delusion as to the part played by the British secret service, and the books which he wrote before the war have been widely read all over the English-speaking world. The account which he gives of the Russian revolution and of the amazing part which the monk played in its progress is supported by official documents in his possession by the Russian and other allied authorities.

Rasputin was a dirty, illiterate Siberian peasant and horse-thief, who discovered that he was possessed of unusual hypnotic powers. He assumed the role of a Holy Man and by imposing upon the credulity of highly-placed women rose to be virtual dictator of the Russian empire. He lived in person in the harem, he invented an exotic religion of his own. The religious ceremonies over which he presided were so gross and bestial in character as to forbid description in a daily newspaper. The verminous libertine achieved absolute domination over the harem by pretending that he held the health, and even the life of her son, the little czar, absolutely in his hands.

The czar's favorite lady-in-waiting was his chief mistress and accomplice. He was who gave or withheld the secret Chinese drug to the little patient according to the monk's wish to improve or decline in health.

German in birth and sympathy, the czar was working in collusion with the emperor of Germany for the overthrow of the Russian armies. In this task he was assisted by the Russian prime minister, Sturmer, and many other agents of the Berlin court. Rasputin and his fellow conspirators were in receipt of constant communications and handsome incomes from the Potsdam government.

Rasputin had private quarters in the czar's palace and took most of his meals with the royal family, but he maintained a harem of his own, where he received the czar's agents and plotted for the destruction of bleeding Russia. Officers at the front were bribed to forego attacks upon the central powers and even to withdraw their troops at critical moments. When General Brusiloff carried out his spectacular advance against the Austrians, an attempt was made to poison him, but a fellow officer fell a victim to the deadly poison prepared by the czar's lips. The Kaiser sent 150 barrels of Canadian apples inoculated with cholera germs for distribution through charitable institutions with a view of starting a plague, and so discouraging Russia, but the fruit decayed en route and was unfit for consumption on arrival. Other tactics adopted by Rasputin and his agents were the destruction of munition works, the creation of unnecessary shortage in food and the crippling of transportation facilities. Mr. Le Queux supports these astonishing assertions with documentary evidence secured through secret service channels.

Rasputin had the Russian court so completely in his power that the czar dismissed and appointed ministers, governors, generals and other state officials at the dirty monk's dictation. So great was his authority that he had numbers of high officials in the Russian chancellery who were of his own appointment in their stead. He sent hundreds of extreme revolutionaries to the front to break down the morale of the Russian army. Fire after fire, explosion after explosion, destroyed munition plants and factories engaged in the production of other war supplies. As in Canada and the United States, the police were powerless to detect the authors of these outrages. When himself or any one of his agents appeared to be in danger or under suspicion, Rasputin took prompt action. Those who tried to interfere with his plans were put out of the way either by dismissal from office or through the complete route of death. Korniloff and Kerensky, like Brusiloff, were marked for destruction by the Kaiser and Rasputin, but the Rascal Monk was nearing his end, and he fortunately survived him.

W. M. U. 1199

In the autumn of 1916 Rasputin visited Berlin in the garb of a Dutch pastor, there receiving instructions which doubtless prevented the great eastern offensive which Britain and France expected to take place in 1917. The latter part of the book is taken up with the killing of Rasputin by a group of high-born Russian nobles. He is a Holy criminal and done his work all too well. Russia was demoralized. The removal of the weak czar and his traitorous wife did not bring relief. Conditions went from worse to worse. Revolution has succeeded revolution. The Russian empire is broken into fragments. The so-called Bolshevik government at Petrograd may mean well, but it controls only a small part of the former empire. It is engaged in what looks like futile negotiations with Potsdam. It is trying to organize a country which has for years been debauched by German intrigue. The task seems almost hopeless.

The Bolshevik's Shock

Dazed Russian Admits His Inability to Argue With Trotskyites

I was walking one night in the outskirts of Brest-Litovsk when I noticed a familiar figure leaning against the wall of a building. I recognized him as one of the German plenipotentiaries. He happened to be on speaking terms. I inquired courteously after his health. "Well enough in the body," he said, "but my mind is being given away. One more session with these Bolsheviks and I am done for." "And you seem such a pleasant people," I said.

"Pleasant, yes. But they are undermining my mental constitution," he said, pressing his hands wearily to his throbbing temples. "I was born in Prussia. For the space of 11 years I used to leave home for school at 8:45 and return at 3:55, going to bed at 7:30. Then in high school my hours were from 9:15 to 5:25, 20 plennies, as you call it, took 25 minutes for lunch and three-quarters of an hour for exercise. My annual expenditures were 2,545 marks and 50 plennies, as you call it, took 25 minutes for lunch and three-quarters of an hour for exercise. My annual expenditures were 2,545 marks and 50 plennies, as you call it, took 25 minutes for lunch and three-quarters of an hour for exercise."

"But not the Bolshevik delegates," he went on, "at a meeting for 10 o'clock and show up at 2:30. And you seem such a pleasant people," I said.

"Pleasant, yes. But they are undermining my mental constitution," he said, pressing his hands wearily to his throbbing temples. "I was born in Prussia. ## Milk as a Solid Food

Specially Valuable for Children and Better Than Meat

The New York College of Agriculture is responsible for the following interesting article on the value of milk as a solid food.

Milk is a solid food and not merely a pleasing beverage. Although milk is swallowed as a liquid, it almost immediately becomes a solid food, for a process similar to churning takes place in the human stomach, just as when junket is added to milk, it thickens into the rather firm curd which is the solid food of milk. In the cheese factory this curd is made into cheese; in the stomach it is digested and becomes assimilated into body tissue. This curd may not seem as solid a food as meat, but it does the same work in the body and has the added advantage of passing through the digestive process without as much of the decay that meat or other foods undergo. To let milk replace meat in the daily food, in a measure, is urged as a wise move in war time.

It is recognized that there are some adults and even some babies who have difficulty in digesting milk. This difficulty occurs in the liquefaction of this curd, which must be liquefied as it is digested. There is a simple way of correcting this difficulty; that is, to boil the milk. The curd formed from boiled milk is not nearly as large or so firm as that from fresh milk.

Milk is the kind of solid food which should be fed to little children, for it is pointed out that they can use it to much better advantage than they can meat. It is a matter of common observation that little children are subject to fits when fed meat, and although little children may not be so seriously affected, they may be made nervous and irritable by it. It is even suggested that the crossness of some grownups may be due to too much meat. Adults, however, can usually make normal use of meat, but for children the very best solid food is milk.

Under Provocation
That one of the professors at Princeton has had his domestic trials recently evidenced when a young woman of rather serious turn endeavored to involve him in a theological discussion. "Professor," she asked, "do you or do you not believe in infant damnation?" "I believe in it," said the professor, "only at night."

A Lost Russian Army One of the Mysteries of the War Yet to Be Solved

Recently in the New York Times there appeared the following advertisement: "Lost—A Russian army. Last seen somewhere in Asia Minor. Finder please return to nearest Russian government. No questions asked." Not for many months has there been any news about those great Russian forces under Grand Duke Nicholas which captured Erzerum, Trebizond and Erzingan nearly two years ago. If they were fighting it is pretty certain, some news of it would have come from the Turks, and if they are retreating it is impossible to believe the Turks would not have reported it. One wonders then, if it is a possibility, though it seems remote, that these armies have remained intact and are menacing the safety of cities deep in the Ottoman empire—Sivas, Diarbekir, Ankara.

The last mention of the army was contained in a Russian bulletin from Petrograd, October 5, 1917, which told of the capture of a village 50 miles north of Mosul, one of the most important Turkish cities in Asia. It was then thought that the Russian army meant to try to capture the Turkish cities in Asia. It had followed up the capture of Bagdad by that of Ramadi, 60 miles to the northeast. Not a word have we heard since of the Russians, either from themselves or from the British. It is longer still since word has come of the Russian army operating around Hamadan and Kermanshah. Last July a bulletin was issued mentioning this powerful force. Then the veil fell. It is remarkable that no word has come from Petrograd. Is there a special significance in the censorship hiding the movements or the inactivity of the Russian army in Armenia?

The guess has been hazarded that this army may have escaped Bolshevikism. The Asiatic armies of Russia have been far removed from the centres of anarchy, and the hope has been expressed that they would be under the influence of the Bolsheviks. Whether this assumption was justified, there is at present no means of knowing. But some day, perhaps in the near future, the veil will be lifted, and one of the mysteries of the war will be solved.—Montreal Herald.

"You say this poem was composed on the spur of the moment?" asked the editor.
"Yes, sir," replied the proud author, "I struck me all of a sudden, and I dashed it off."
"Permit me to offer you a word of advice."
"Certainly."

"The next time a poem strikes you, put on a gym suit and run it off."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

ALL AT HOME SHOULD PREPARE FOR WAR

The first test a man is put through for either war or life insurance is an examination of his water. This is most essential because the kidneys play a most important part in causing premature old age and death. The more serious the disease passing through the kidneys the sooner comes decay—so says Dr. Pierce of Burleigh Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., who further advises all people who are past thirty to preserve the vitality of the kidneys and free the blood from poisonous elements, such as uric acid—drink plenty of water—sweet some daily and take Anuric, double strength, before meals.

An-uric is a discovery of Dr. Pierce, and can be obtained at drug stores. For that backache, lumbago, rheumatism, "rusty" joints, swollen feet or hands, due to uric acid in the blood, Anuric quickly dissolves the uric acid as hot water does sugar. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for trial pack.

Finally let me back and want down into the feet. It developed into a chronic case. I tried every medicine I could hear of and consulted some good doctors, but still I kept on suffering. About a year ago a friend advised me to give Anuric a trial, and an happy to say I am today a well man—never feel any trace of my ailment no matter what the weather. I can now be Anuric in a real kidney medicine in every sense."—W. M. Harrison, 6 Malville Street.

Seize Bernstorff's Money

U. S. Government Takes $900,000
Bonds, Property of Count's Wife

A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, has seized stocks and bonds to the value of nearly $900,000, the personal property of Countess Bernstorff, found in the vaults of trust companies in Washington and New York.

The property of Mrs. Marguerite Vivian Burton Thomason, formerly of Burlington, N.J., who recently married Count von Bernstorff's son, will also be seized.

Mr. Palmer recently announced that he would purchase Liberty bonds with the money seized under the alien property act.

Imports from South America last year were almost three times as great as in the year preceding the war, rising from $198,000,000 to $755,000,000. The gain is obviously due to the stimulus of war.

Early Day Farming In Manitoba

Something of the Primitive Methods Used by the Early Settlers

"Weeds are not a feature of modern years in Manitoba. These pests came from the Red River with the early settlers obtained from Minnesota. I can recollect picking wild mustard and several other weed plants when a boy on my father's farm at St. Norbert."

Thus spoke one of the last human links in the chain of Manitoba old-time populace. He has now retired from life's activities, and is spending the twilight hours at a cottage on the Red River bank northward of Winnipeg.

"During the early years small farms were scattered along the Red River and Assiniboine rivers," remarked the narrator, who several years since passed the nineteenth milestone of his earthly career. "When I was a young lad I know that a settlement of folks lived at White Horse Plains, and a few people dwelt around Poplar Point, whilst an uncle of mine farmed near Portage la Prairie. The farms, at least those of the 'river lots,' measured four miles in length, and a width of twelve miles."

In speaking of crops raised by early settlers, the old time farmer referred to much seed grain on the acreage. The wheat was sown by hand and reaped with a sickle, but if the straw was very short it was customary to pull up the roots and shake the heads into sacks. The first "machine system" of seeding was performed many years ago with a "gaiting gun," the method of old-time farmers in Manitoba today will recollect as in vogue some twenty-five years since.

"The seed grain was cleaned by hand in a very simple way," said the pioneer, who explained the process as that of spreading grain on the floor of a barn, and with a large wing, sweep away weed seeds and small weeds."

"Had any of the farmers horses in the early years?" asked the visitor.

"I have a faint recollection that a few teams were along the Red River," was the response. "But I can well remember a man at St. Norbert who brought a span of horses from St. Anthony's Falls (Minnesota). My father, as with most of those who farmed any land, used a yoke of cattle."

The laborious efforts of old-time agriculturists are well illustrated by the following statement: "I have helped to seed acres of wheat with a hoe, and harrow the land afterward with a handrake!" Contrast the early day farmer's tools with the machinery of Manitoba in the second decade of the twentieth century.

"To thresh the crop we used a flail," continued the veteran of Red River agriculture. "So soon as a farmer had some sacks of wheat, he took this grain to be ground. Wind-

When Every Grog Shop in the Country is Closed Forever

Some morning between now and A.D. 1925, we shall awake to find that every cheap grog shop in the country is closed forever. How this will add to the well-being of the American nation will be richer at the close of every year than it is now by more than $1,000,000,000, which is now being poured out in waste.

With the vast sum saved, how the comfort of the toiling masses will be increased! Their poverty will be translated to competence, their homes made hygienic and comfortable, industrial and scientific schools will be established for them and the unmitigated sorrows of their wives and children will be comforted. "The price and penalties of the world of the present time will be relieved of more than half their inmates, the insane asylums will be depleted, and fewer children will come into the world with defective minds and bodies." The world will then take a mighty leap forward into the goods time coming. —Los Angeles Times.

Anzac Learn to Skate During Their Convalescence in Canada

The Australian soldiers, like the Canadian, have been a big part of the world in their military service, but according to the men from the southern continent, the best time of their lives was spent in the way of sport that appealed to them more than the hockey matches they have watched on the Canadian rink.

At Cobourg where a number of these men are under treatment in the Canadian military hospital they have enjoyed the open air rink in connection with the institution, and learned to cut a few curves themselves. The fine expanses of skating surface in Canada are a novelty to them.

Mr. Gladstone on Asace-Lorraine

Was Very Much Concerned About the Fate of the Two Provinces

The German chancellor quoted Carlyle the other day on the question of Alsace-Lorraine.

In there is another authority he might have quoted—namely, Gladstone. Gladstone, who was premier in 1870, was very much concerned about the fate of the two provinces. He wanted to organize a protest of all the neutral powers against what he called the "atrocities of Alsace-Lorraine." His diary of September, 1870, records his failure to convince either his colleagues or other countries of the expediency of this move.

To Bright he wrote: "My opinion certainly is that the transfer of territory and inhabitants by mere force calls for the reprobation of Europe."

On another occasion he predicted that if the crime was committed "without any voice previously raised against it it will be a standing reproach to England."

Finally, on December 20, he wrote to Lord Granville a letter in which he foresees that the violation of the rights of peoples would have a lasting and pernicious effect on the international relations of Europe.

In fact, it has poisoned the body politic of Europe for forty-four years, and the evil will last until the poison is forcibly removed. Not since the time—From a Letter in the New York Times.

Cannot Trust Germany

Can Be Trusted to Keep No Covenant When Victory Is to Its Own Interest

The British memorandum is especially explicit about Belgium. It demands as a foremost condition of peace full reparations by the German government and payment for all damage done. As to such large measures as a super-national authority, or League of Nations, or compulsory arbitration, these all assume for their success that governments which are parties to them can be trusted. But the present German government can be trusted to keep no covenant when violation is to its own interest. It has proclaimed and acted on that principle, and has never repudiated it. With the best will in the world, no one could ever be sure that the German government was not engaged in some treacherous intrigue, preparing some secret stroke; and all the nations would be incessantly watching it with suspicion and distrust. In other words, the war aims of Labor, as defined, assume a change of spirit in Germany which cannot be secured until the present military autocracy is discredited by palpable defeat. —London Times.

Agricultural Instruction

Many Alberta Farmers Profit by Short Courses

The first of the short course schools under the plan of the department of agriculture of Alberta was held at Macleod, and was the most successful. The course occupied two days, and on both days there was a very large attendance of farmers from the surrounding district, who followed the lectures with much interest. Silos and silage crops, sheep raising, alfalfa, varieties of grain suitable to the locality, soil cultivation, were among the subjects treated upon. The opinion of the farmers was that the lectures would be of much benefit to them and all returned to their farms determined to put into practice the views expressed.

Important to Farmers

The Free Importation of Cattle and Tractors

Two orders which have been passed by the Canadian government recently are of much importance to intending settlers in Western Canada. They refer to the importation of livestock and small tractors into Canada for a period of one year. The duties hitherto imposed have been removed, and it is now permissible to import any number of cattle and for motor tractors not exceeding $1,400 in value to be brought into Canada free of duty.

Textually the order in council reads: "During the period of one year from February 7, 1918, remission and refund of duty is hereby authorized in respect to meat cattle when imported by bona fide residents of Canada under regulations by the minister of customs."

"During the period of one year from February 7, 1918, remission and refund of duty is hereby authorized in respect to traction engines costing not more than $1,400 in the country of production designed to be used for power purposes and parts thereof for repair, and traction engines designed and imported to be combined with automobiles in Canada for use as traction engines for farm purposes and parts thereof for repairs."

ALMOST HELPLESS FROM RHEUMATISM

Only Able to Move About on Crutches—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored Activity

Inflammatory rheumatism, acute or chronic, is a disease which has many different names for practically the same thing. It comes on with hardly any warning. The pain is excruciating, the limbs are stiff, the joints are swollen, and the patient is unable to move. The disease attacks the heart when it may have fatal results.

One who has suffered from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism knows that the usual treatment is highly unsatisfactory. External applications of heat, cloths and liniments and internal doses of salicylates to relieve the pain are not enough, for they do not drive the poison from the blood, and the sufferer is liable to renewed attacks whenever exposed to cold or dampness.

To cure rheumatism so that it will stay cured the rheumatic poison in the blood must be driven out, and the blood must be purified. When the blood is pure there can be no rheumatism. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the blood, which is rich and pure and in this way cure the most obstinate cases of rheumatism. Mr. George Harbottle, of Michigan, writes: "I was afflicted with rheumatism for four months with little or no relief. He then decided to go to Michigan, where he took the baths for three weeks, but did not find any benefit from them. By the time he had finished his case was hopeless, and he decided to return home. When he reached home he could only move around by the use of a crutch and a cane. One knee was so stiff that he could not bend it, and most of his joints were swollen out of shape. He was neither dress nor undress himself and had to be helped like a child. I urged him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and finally he consented to do so. He had only been taking the pills a few weeks when he could limp about, without the crutch and cane. He was able to walk about outside. He continued to use the pills for some four months, by which time every symptom of the disease had disappeared, and he went to his work in Michigan a cured man. His case was a real triumph for the pills, and here and his cure was looked upon as marvelous, for everyone thought that at the best he was doomed to be a rheumatic cripple."

It is because they have made such wonderful cures as Mr. Harbottle's that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a world wide reputation, and are the only medicine used in thousands and thousands of homes. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Help to Produce Own Food

Grain Growers Should Be Free to Concentrate on Grain Production This Year

Speaking at the first of the series of meetings being held under the auspices of the Regina Poultry Association, Mr. F. Hedley Auld, deputy minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, urged poultry breeders in Canada to devote some time to encouraging other citizens to take up poultry raising. Mr. Auld urged that the grain growers of the province should be left free to devote all their energies to producing grain. Poultry-raising, he said, was a work in which the urban population could take part without any trouble, and with little care, could make a success. With the urban population producing food, the rural population could, through vacant lot gardening, poultry raising, or hog raising where possible, it would be a good idea for the allies, who used food.

Test the Left-Over Seed

Use of Old Seed, If Found Good, Means Needed Saving

Prof. T. G. Bunting, head of the department of horticulture in the Macdonald College states that the seed situation is in fact as the supply of sweet corn, beans, carrots and onion seed is concerned, is critical and may, late on, be probably good. He adds that nearly every farmer and market gardener who grows vegetables will have some seed left over from former years and many of these should be of value for planting. He suggests a simple germinating test of old seed.

"Most vegetable seeds are good for three or more years, so do not hesitate to test old seed," he writes. "Parsnip seed is only good for one year; carrot and celery usually one to two years; but tomato, turnip, cucumber and beet seed should be fairly good from five to six years, provided they have not been in an extremely dry or very damp place. The use of old seed, provided it is tested and found good, will result in a direct saving of money and may mean in some cases that someone else will not go short this year."

The Dominion government, department of agriculture, is working out the situation of seed supply and arrangements are being made in so far, as possible, to relieve the seed shortage. In the meantime, however, farmers and gardeners ought to do their utmost to eliminate waste in the use of seed in order that the acreage of crops may not be seriously reduced.

Hoarding Food

The Selfish Crime of Protecting Yourself at the Detriment of Others

Hoarding is one of the new words of the war. It means storing in excess of requirements, especially of food and fuel just at present. No storing and laying up a prudent supply for real needs is not a crime in peace times; but the man or woman who willfully and coolly decides to lay up to store more food than he or she would buy in ordinary times is committing something that has the moral effect of the crime of hoarding.

There is no cause for panic among the people of the Dominion. We must expect to make some food sacrifices and be willing to modify our eating habits. There is a shortage of food because, so far as we are concerned, the other people who have had to be withdrawn from farms to fight what is our joint fight. They have had to leave their farms at least sending them as much food as they need to get before they took up our common task.

"Hoarding is a crime of selfishly taking care of one's own skin to the detriment of others, either by hoarding or by not hoarding. By doing too much for immediate gain, packing in Canada also imposes a burden on the poorer classes in the Dominion. The railway difficulties are especially great this winter; obstacles in distribution of foodstuffs are adding to the shortage. More hoarding by people who lack proper facilities for storing may easily result in heavy waste. For this reason especially, public opinion should be aroused against the practice."

It is a thing that comes down to the sense of right in the buyer. If he or she knows what patriotism means, knows what others have to undergo only because they did not happen to live in Canada, and in whose place Canadians might have been but for the accident of geography, there will be no hoarding. Public opinion and public disapprobation of hoarding may do much to encourage the practice but nothing can really be effective unless the moral sense of buyers of foods tells them plainly when they are laying in their stores or grabbing at an opportunity of plenty for the chief reason that they have enough money to get it. It is no wonder that under the stress of war, the British people found for the man who attempted hoarding the expressive title of "Food Hog."

There has been some "hoarding" in Canada of sugar, flour, and perhaps other commodities. The practice fortunately is of small proportions and the effect of measures now under consideration may result in the exposure of the Canadian "Food Hogs." Hoarding is unnecessary and unpatriotic. The better elements in the community will refrain from it so far as their own households are concerned and will use their influence against it elsewhere.

Often people who buy large quantities of these foods without thinking of the way in which they may be depriving others. Every patriotic Canadian will do well to resolve that he will "play the game" fairly with his neighbor, and with the poorer classes, by purchasing food only in normal quantities while the present emergency lasts, and by discouraging hoarding wherever he finds evidence of it.

How the Canadian Railways are Co-operating and Divesting Traffic to Relieve Congestion

It may be of general interest to the Canadian public to know some examples of the way in which the railways, through the Canadian Pacific Association for National Defence, are exchanging traffic in the interests of efficiency.

In one case the C. P. R. diverted by way of the Soo Line one thousand cars of freight so as to relieve the main line of the company along the north shore of Lake Superior. These cars passed south from Winnipeg to Minneapolis and by way of Sault Ste. Marie into Ontario. They consisted chiefly of grain for domestic consumption in Canada.

One hundred cars of freight per day are being diverted from the C. P. R. at Quebec and travelling by way of the National Transcontinental to Halifax. While there is no saving in mileage, this in the interest of the National Transcontinental P. R. main line to St. John for classes of export freight more urgently required there.

In Toronto an arrangement was successfully carried out whereby one hundred and twenty cars of freight eastbound to Montreal were diverted from the C. P. R. to the C. N. R. every day.

The Grand Trunk during the winter season has been diverting one hundred and fifty to two hundred cars of coal per day to the C. P. R. and T. H. Northern lines to lessen the congestion on the Grand Trunk from the Niagara frontier to Toronto and other points.

The Grand Trunk has also diverted fifty cars per day to the C. N. R. at Toronto.

In Toronto Canada the Canadian Northern has on several occasions transferred surplus traffic to the sister railways in the West.

Shortage of Feed

According to a recent statement made by Mr. A. Protheroe, president of the Board of Agriculture, there were only enough oats available in Britain to feed working horses, and rationing was being made allowance for milking stocks. There was no concentrated food for cattle feeding and this shortage would continue for at least a year, he declared. He was afraid that all carriage horses which had not been sent out to grass would have to be sent to grass and kept there.

A Submariner's Story

Why the Big U-boat Proved to Be Harmless

Even the boasted German genius for organization is not infallible. Judging by a curious but authentic incident which occurred in home waters not so long ago.

One of the British patrol vessels encountered a big U-boat and sank her after a brief interchange of fire. The Hun commandant, who was rescued, complained bitterly of his luck. "We should have sunk you," he declared, "if we had had proper ammunition for our guns." It transpired that all the shells supplied to this particular submarine were filled with sand instead of T.N.T.

One of these "dud" projectiles actually struck the patrol vessel near the boilers, and would certainly have destroyed her had it exploded. The U-boat captain could not, or would not, offer any explanation of the mystery, but it was obviously either a case of graft or gross negligence on the part of the German dockyard authorities.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it has caused untold misery. Doctors prescribed local remedies, but by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. ## Editorial Comment

Investigation in the United States has disclosed profiteering rampant and in Canada it has been disclosed by investigation and is easily realized without investigation, but according to the propaganda of the Canada food board it is disloyal to mention it.

The I.W.W. have been discovered in an effort to establish Bolshevik ideas in Canada. The names of the propagandists caught are John Perehudu and Andrew Bobanko, so it is evident Bolshevik principles confine themselves largely to people with difficult names for Canadians.

The sinking of a hostial ship is nothing new for Germany, in fact it is only what could be expected. The expressions of horror caused by the torpedoing of the Llandovery Castle are simply a repetition of the usual thing. Germany has sacrificed old and young, male and female since the war began and will continue to do so until she is crushed—and that's what the world is busy at now.

In estimating the probable grain yield in the Lethbridge district the Herald reduces the estimated acreage from 2,500,000 to 2,000,000 and the likely yield is given as 10,000,000 bushels of grain, otherwise five bushels to the acre. A considerable amount of the crop is being ploughed up and pastured.

The "work or fight" law has led to the closing of two baseball leagues for the season in the United States. These are the Pacific Coast International and Texas. Poor support had also something to do with the decision to quit by the owners.

The Sultan is the latest addition to the list of rulers assassinated owing to the war, if rumor tells the truth.

Dry weather is hitting British Columbia in two vulnerable spots. Crop conditions are bad and forest fires are bringing ruin to lumbermen. For Canadian producers this year 1918 seems to be a hoodoo.—Calgary Herald.

President Wilson has vetoed the raising of the price of wheat to $2.40 per bushel on the ground that the increase in price is not justified by the cost of production. The present price is undoubtedly high enough for everybody concerned unless it is the farmers.

Prices for cotton products showing reductions from 20 to 30 per cent, as compared with quoted market prices were approved by President Wilson. The prices were agreed to at conferences between the price fixing committee of the war industry board and a committee representing cotton goods manufacturers.

Every indication points to greater need than ever for strict conservation of food supplies in Canada. With field crops below average, a grain crop badly damaged by drought, and most of the fruit crop much less in quantity than a year ago, we cannot afford to lose or waste anything.—Calgary Herald.

The Calgary Trades and Labor Council among other things is asking for an investigation into the cost of the production of coal at the Drumheller and other Alberta mines. The extremely high price of fuel is the cause

Progress in Forest Conservation.

In emphasizing the need for scientifically trained men in Canada for dealing with such technical problems as those involved in the proper conservation of our forest resources, Sir Clifford Sifton in his annual address as chairman of the Commission of Conservation recalled the fact that seventeen years ago when he took charge of the establishment of the Forestry Branch of the department of the Interior there was not known to be a single trained forester in Canada.

Now, on the contrary, we have schools of forestry at Toronto, Quebec and Fredericton, while the Dominion and provincial governments and the lumbering companies and other institutions connected with the industry have in their employ upwards of 150 trained foresters and the number is steadily increasing. Seventy-three forestry students have enlisted which goes to show that but for the war there would have been upwards of 200 foresters in Canada. In the matter of forestry improvement the various organizations at work have succeeded in bringing about possibly the greatest degree of improvement observable in connection with any department or branch of natural resources. In this connection the Canadian Forestry Association and its capable secretary, Mr. Robson Black, are worthy of special mention.—Rod and Gun.

Because of the shortage of shipping Great Britain has already fallen behind 25,000 tons in her schedule of meat shipments guaranteed to France, compared to the total of 70,000 tons shortage in the schedule for 1917.

It is estimated that 400,000,000 people in Europe are short of food. In Poland, Finland, Serbia, Armenia and Russia, millions are actually dying of starvation and other millions are suffering from under nutrition, while still others are living on the barest possible margin.

Another indication of the pressure under which the American programme is being rushed to meet the German menace came from the provost marshal general's office when orders were issued to local boards to speed up physical examination of the new class of men and have them ready for overseas in August.

The only person authorized to wear a decoration or a ribbon thereof is the soldier to whom the distinction has been awarded. This information has been issued by the militia department in answer to a large number of persons who have been inquiring as to whether relatives of deceased soldiers have the right to wear decorations awarded to these soldiers.

The average age of bachelors who marry spinsters is 26 of widowers who marry widows just under 30.

The first convictions of the fishing season under the Fisheries Act was made in the Calgary police court when seven disciples of Isaac Walton were arraigned before the magistrate and charged with catching fish under nine inches long and failing to throw them back in to the river.

All male pupils of the high and public schools of Toronto will be instructed to salute all returned, wounded and crippled soldiers, whether in uniform or in civilian, when meeting them in public places. Such was decided at the meeting of the board of education. The motion carried unanimously. The form of salute will likely be decided upon by the cadet instructor.

The Regina Medical Association will erect a tablet in the local General Hospital to the memory of the late Dr. E. E. Meek, of Regina, who was killed in France while operating in a Red Cross hospital on a wounded soldier. While performing the operation details just received show, German airmen bombed the hospital, killing everyone in the building.

With the object of increasing the area of grazing land available for stock in southern Alberta this year, George Hoadley, M. L. A. for Okotoks, has wired Hon. T. A. Crerar, federal minister of agriculture suggesting that federal reserves, railway lands and other unoccupied areas be thrown open to farmers and ranchers for grazing purposes. In this way it is believed a great deal of feed can be conserved. News from Ottawa says the minister has the matter under consideration.

More than 1,000,000 Frenchmen have been killed in war and 1,500,000 are physically unfitted by their injuries to carry on their farm work. The women are managing the farms and doing most of the farm work. In battle zones, such as the Champagne district, women did not forsake their work in the fields even when German shells were bursting around them.

When the cannonading was heavy they lay flat on the ground and as soon as there was a lull they would be up attending to their grape vines. The wives of French farmers have always helped their husbands in the fields. They now do double duty, rising earlier and working later. Horses were conscripted for the army and French women have taken their place in the fields and harvests. Food production in France despite the efforts of women, children, old men and cripples has dropped to one third.

Rod and Gun for July is a special fishing number, most of the stories relating to the pursuit of the finny tribe, with just enough variety to make the number of interest to those whose allegiance to the placid art is divided among other outdoor sports. The usual departments are well maintained, the Trap department containing illustrated write up of the recent tournament of the Dominion Trap Shooting Association at Hamilton, and the Kennel department the list of awards at the London and Montreal Shows. "Sniping in France" by a professional sniper is only one of the fine articles appearing in the Guns and Ammunition section. Rod and Gun is published by W. J. Taylor, Limited at Woodstock, Ont.

Canadian vs. German Forest Fire Losses.

During the past four years, according to official German estimates, the fire losses in the forests have been exceedingly small. Prior to 1914, the total fire destruction on over a million acres of German forests was below one thousand dollars a year. Other German forest areas suffered even less harm. In Canada, however, the country's commercial strength has been steadily weakened by devastating forest fires that devour each year several million dollars worth of property and many human lives. Most of these forest fires were started by careless campers who burn on rocks or gravel, and should be entirely extinguished.
The careless camper in Canada is gladly pay his bombers and propa-gandists to accomplish.

THE FREEDOM OF THE SEAS AS IT IS UNDERSTOOD IN GERMANY

HOHENZOLLERN DOCTRINE OF MARITIME LIBERTY

Is a Good Deal Like the German Doctrine of Freedom of the Sidewalk, under which an Officer is Free to Shove a Refined Woman into the Gutter

At last we have an answer to the oft-uttered query as to what Germany mean by the incantation "freedom of the seas," which figures in all their professions of peace. It is constantly on the lips of Dr. Dernburg, when he is throwing bouzoures at the United States. The answer is recently given in a speech delivered in Berlin Philharmonic Hall. The Count's words were:

"What do we Germans understand by freedom of the seas? Of course we do not mean by it that free use of the sea which is the shared privilege of all nations in times of peace, the right to open highways of international trade. That sort of freedom of the sea we had before the war."

Of course they had it, but freedom and privileges that are shared by other nations are not to the taste of Germany like Count Reventlow. No, indeed.

"What we understand today by this doctrine," says he, "is that Germany should possess such maritime territories and such naval bases that at the outbreak of a war we should be able, with our navy ready, reasonably to guarantee ourselves the command of the seas. We want such a jumping-off place for our navy as would give us a fair chance of dominating the seas and thus being free of the sea during a war."

Reports of the speech in the German press show that Count Reventlow is interpreted as he likes. No doubt there were more cheers when this tragic comedian denounced as a traitor any German who would consent to relinquishing the coast of Belgium, or the German ambition to hold the northern coast of France. It is plain to see that it is like appealing to the deaf and blind to talk to such Junkers as Reventlow. It differs from the German plea only in his candor: peace projects, war, war, war—Deutschland über Alles—is all they think of. "To them the present war is but the preliminary of another which shall give Germany world domination. Verily the Lord hath hardened the hearts of our own and are getting pretty hard also. Leaving such maritime countries as France and Italy out of the picture, what are the Count's arguments? The British peoples are made of, since the clamors for a "freedom" which would merely mean their own annihilation whenever Germany organizes another war? In what a predicament do he leave those American college professors who in a favorable ear to the German plea for "freedom of the seas?" The German doctrine of maritime liberty is a good thing for the German, but a bad thing for the free world, under which an officer is free to shove a refined woman into the gutter.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Revolution Impossible in Germany

For some months there has been a good deal of speculation in the English press on the possibility of revolution, and on the outlook for responsible parliamentary government, in Germany. Only a combination of military defeat and starvation seems to me likely to cause a violent upheaval that would likely affect the foundation of the political structure. Every man and woman are so fitted into the German system that it can collapse only as a whole. Herr Scheidegger, the leader of the majority Socialists, whose recent utterances have evoked expressions of strong disapproval from non-German Socialists everywhere, said recently by the same thing in July, 1917: "The destruction of the Prussian military machine is the only way to the well."—A. D. McLaren in The Atlantic Monthly.

Remember the Lizard!

The Lizard at Alexandria won for itself a place in history and for the young officer who is now Lord Beresford. There is a good story of this viper war for the destroyer Lizard, which engaged the Goeben and Breslau at a distance, reassured for help and sent her smoke screen about the stricken monitors. A gallant action in the good old style.—New York World.

Responsibility For Saving Food

Hard Work in the Field and in the Home Solution of Difficulty

The very great difficulties in the way of continuing rationing in Canada put an additional responsibility for voluntary food service upon every Canadian, no matter what his rank or circumstances may be. With a tremendous stretch of country sparsely settled, except in a comparatively few districts, the enforcement of compulsory food economy on any general scale presents serious obstacles. It is hoped that the greatest production campaign which is now being started, will make unnecessary any resort to compulsory rationing in this country. At the same time our people must realize that efforts must not be relaxed to conserve food, for the need is very great.

Lord Rhonda in a recent cablegram to the United States food administration stated that unless that country were able to send the allies at least 75,000,000 bushels of wheat, over and above what had been exported up to January 1, and in addition to the total exportable surplus from Canada, he would not take the responsibility of assuring the people of the allies that there would be food enough to win the war. "Impetuous necessity compels me to cable you in this blunt way," said Lord Rhonda.

"We will export every grain that the American people save from their normal consumption," was Mr. Hoover's reply. The vital need is that the allies should be assured that the United States should be very much interested.

The following figures indicate how great is the demand for overseas to meet their shortage:

In addition to Canada's total exportable surplus and the 75,000,000 bushels which is absolutely the minimum that the allies must have from the United States, 15,000,000 bushels must be found for Belgian relief and 10,000,000 bushels for Cuba and other neutrals upon whom the allies are dependent for other foodstuffs.

Before the war the American export of beef averaged 1,000,000 pounds for the twelve months. The months British ships are being sent to American and Canadian ports for over 700,000,000 pounds a month. In pork products, the allies total 50,000,000 a month before the war. They now ask for 150,000,000 pounds.

Their reduction of rations among the people of the allies in Great Britain has had to cut down their compulsory ration already from 100,000,000 to 50,000,000. Sir Arthur Yapp proposed as late as November last in proof of the need. The responsibility for saving food so that it can be sent to the allies shall be less, lies largely with the housewife. In fact, the immediate work of helping the allies by food is falling to the housewife. The larger supply for the allies next year is more especially the Canadian wheat. Preparations for it should not be delayed until spring. Sheer hard work in the home, and then in the field, is the only solution of the problem of food. The allies are fighting uncomplainingly for us. Food will win the war. Mr. Hoover has said: "The food shall win—German or Canadian?"

The Fateful Goeben

Has Played a Most Important Part in the War

The German battleship, the Goeben, will figure in history as a vessel of fate. By her tactics decided many events, and it is true that she has at last been put out of action on a beach of the Aegean Sea. Her decisive events may result. But a Berlin dispatch claims that the Goeben has been saved again.

In the opening days of the war the Goeben escaped from a Sicilian harbor by a ruse and gained the protection of the Dardanelles. The British, who were fooled, did not have to be to blame, but his failure to stop the Goeben cost his country a humanity debt. To it can be traced the conquest of Gallipoli, the destruction of Serbia, the downfall of Rumania, even the defeat of Russia and the prolongation of the war. For the presence of the Goeben in the Golden Horn, its ability to destroy the whole Turkish navy and to bombard Istanbul, enabled the German party in the Sultan's councils to commit Turkey to the Kaiser's cause.

Had the Goeben been sealed in Messina harbor, or destroyed by the British in the Mediterranean, the Turks would have remained neutral. Bosphorus and western supplies have been unloaded at Odessa. Serbia would have been able to hold her own. Russia would have continued an aggressive fighting power, and the war would have been conducted before this time with Germany's defeat.

Strange importance of one battleship! If it is now wrecked the future may be as influenced by its destruction as the past has been determined by its presence. Turkey could be detached from the central powers, their encirclement could be brought to strangulation, the Balkans rescued under the tiger's paw, and the war virtually ended. The Turk like the Bulgar and some other nations by this time is aware of his miscalculation. He knows that, even if Germany should hold her own, Turkey will be called upon to pay the price already in Jerusalem and Baghdad, and the longer the war goes the more she will lose.

And the Goeben holds the destinies of the Turk. The Turk was precipitated into the war by the Goeben, and the Goeben is going to be able to snare on his neck the cub that drives him.—Minneapolis Journal.

With a Raiding Party Inside Reasons of Trench Raid and Some Methods

The papers are full of accounts of trench raids soldiers in France have participated in. Yet there are very few people who know what a trench raid is or how it is executed. It is a description of one by Capt. R. W. Simmie, in a United States newspaper, "The Evening Star," which was published in 1917. He was wounded three times—once at Somme—and was sent to America to take charge of recruiting units of four sections of ten or twelve men, each in command of a lieutenant.

"The main purpose of a trench raid," said Captain Simmie, "is to secure prisoners from whom we can obtain information as to the strength and the numbers of the regiments opposing us. A raid is accomplished under cover of night. The raiding party usually consists of four sections of ten or twelve men, each in command of a lieutenant."

"One of the first things to be done is to select a point of departure. The raiding party usually consists of four sections of ten or twelve men, each in command of a lieutenant. The raiding party usually consists of four sections of ten or twelve men, each in command of a lieutenant."

"When everything is in readiness, the men's faces and bayonets are hidden under cover of night. The raiding party usually consists of four sections of ten or twelve men, each in command of a lieutenant."

"The sections go out, over the parapet one at a time, through the lanes in the trench, and then the trench is cut for them. Following their lieutenant they walk into No Man's Land and crouching, preparing to fall flat or remain motionless, they wait for the shell is shot up near them. It is only through absolute immobility that they escape the detection in the burning white light of a star shell."

"The German usually discover us before we reach their wires. Our bomb and gas grenades are thrown into the German trench and we all fall flat and wait for them to explode. One of the sections has brought to work in the fields every day, including Sundays, from 4 a.m. till 8 p.m., but will be given half an hour's rest in the morning, one hour and a half at midday, and half an hour in the afternoon."

"(1) Men who hedge at their work are to be superintended by a German official, and when the agricultural work is over, will be imprisoned for six months and every third day be fed on bread and water."

"(2) Women who hedge will be taken out of Italy and forced to work. When the war is over they will be imprisoned for six months."

"(3) Children who hedge will be beaten with a stick."

"(4) The German reserves to himself the right to punish all lazy workmen by giving them 20 strokes with a stick."

"I have two more facts to give. The Germans have systematically bombed defenceless villages throughout Italy in order to terrify the inhabitants, many of whom—women and children—have been killed. Signor Guadica, a merchant, assures us that at Zenson on the Piave, where the enemy attempted to cross the river, they forced women and children to stand in a line behind whom they fired on Italian troops. In beating the enemy back to the river, the Germans were assisted by the helplessness of the women and children. To indignity, to cruelty the Germans have appointed a Turk to be governor of Feltre."

"The Kaiser's ambition is to rival Attila, after whom he has named one of his sons, but when in the fifth century he devastated this same region, he was not so barbaric, and he did not take the Italian press to press its amazement that there should still be found in England men who would grant a pardon to the hands of these reprobates, dripping with the blood of innocent women and children."

For More Poultry

A Poultry Plant for Saskatchewan University

It is hoped to have erected and equipped sufficiently early to put into action this spring a modern poultry plant at the Saskatchewan University. Although poultry raising has been a very successful phase of farming in Saskatchewan, it is felt by the poultry men in particular, that the industry has not been given the same prominence as other branches of live stock in the province. The primary object of the building at the present time, says the minister of agriculture, is for the purpose of facilitating a campaign for more poultry raising among the children of the province.

By means of which a substantial additional production may be secured.

Royal Autographs

The bidding for royal autograph letters contained in the Morrison collection offered at Messrs. Sotheby's on Sunday last, drew reference for the dignities of royalty than one would have expected a few years ago.

A letter written by Queen Christina of Sweden sold for £3.85. The bidding for a letter of Catherine de Medici sold for £3.85. A letter to Louis XIII, from Charles I, signed by the latter, made only five guineas, while an autograph letter of Catherine de Medici sold for £300.—Tit-Bits.

How Germans Treat Prisoners

Italian Soldier Gives Some Facts From Personal Experience

An Italian soldier belonging to a machine gun corps, who escaped the hands of the Germans in the forest retreat from the Carso, writes as follows to a friend in Canada:

"I have learned that a large number of the Italian prisoners taken by the enemy were at once set to work at the front, so that they had to fight against their own comrades and were exposed to their fire. At the present moment, instead of being sent to concentration camps, they are being employed on defence works, which the enemy, fearing a powerful attack by the allied forces, are throwing up in great haste and fear. It has come to the knowledge of the secretary of national assistance of the German military commander of Udine, after the province was occupied by the enemy, is the following proclamation:

"(1) Within six hours the inhabitants must surrender all the arms in their possession to the commander, at the different places indicated by him."

"(2) Within six hours they must likewise bring all the food they possess."

"(3) Every one must register his name at these places, and each day at 11 o'clock, present himself, when he will receive a ticket for food for the day."

"(4) All men, women, and children above 15 years of age are obliged to work in the fields every day, including Sundays, from 4 a.m. till 8 p.m., but will be given half an hour's rest in the morning, one hour and a half at midday, and half an hour in the afternoon."

"(5) Men who hedge at their work are to be superintended by a German official, and when the agricultural work is over, will be imprisoned for six months and every third day be fed on bread and water."

For More Poultry

A Poultry Plant for Saskatchewan University

It is hoped to have erected and equipped sufficiently early to put into action this spring a modern poultry plant at the Saskatchewan University. Although poultry raising has been a very successful phase of farming in Saskatchewan, it is felt by the poultry men in particular, that the industry has not been given the same prominence as other branches of live stock in the province. The primary object of the building at the present time, says the minister of agriculture, is for the purpose of facilitating a campaign for more poultry raising among the children of the province.

By means of which a substantial additional production may be secured.

Royal Autographs

The bidding for royal autograph letters contained in the Morrison collection offered at Messrs. Sotheby's on Sunday last, drew reference for the dignities of royalty than one would have expected a few years ago.

A letter written by Queen Christina of Sweden sold for £3.85. The bidding for a letter of Catherine de Medici sold for £3.85. A letter to Louis XIII, from Charles I, signed by the latter, made only five guineas, while an autograph letter of Catherine de Medici sold for £300.—Tit-Bits.

Hub—Every time I look at that new set of yours I have to laugh. I am sure it is going to be around when the bill arrives.—Boston Transcript.

It is now close upon a century and a half since, as the outcome of the American War of Independence, the English-speaking world was divided into two groups. During the last one hundred years these two groups, the British empire and the United States, have lived on friendly terms with never a hostile shot fired between them. And during this period the old feelings of bitterness, the suspicions of each other, the jealousies, have gradually died away from the minds of the English and the Americans.

And now, says the Regina Leader, a United States congressman, returned from the European battlefields, sees the world as a whole, one to be ended and won by the united efforts of the English-speaking world. France, he says, has done as much as she is able and now gloriously, we all know—and it remains for the British empire and the United States to sustain the burden and to crush the despotism.

The view is the true one: not only in a military sense, but in the larger economic, political and humanitarian sense. The ultimate objective at which Germany launches her power is not France or Russia, but the subjugation of the English-speaking world and the substitution of a Teutonic universal power. The "Hymn of Hate," correctly voices the German aspiration:

French and Russian, they matter not. A blow for a blow, and a shot for a shot.

We have one foe, one foe alone—England!

Glancing back over the history of the past, and viewing it in the light of the great task before the British empire and the United States at present, the Minneapolis Journal says:

"The English-speaking world has been divided in twain for a century and a half. But the division is much less apparent to the rest of the world than it is to the English themselves. These are acutely sensible of the differences, the rest of the world has been impressed with their oneness. And those who have seen the English-speaking world extended their hatred to the other half, and the very means conceivable to bind the two halves to their own mutual in order to be able to overcome each half separately."

Farmers in the Taber district seem to have been ordered, by some officials or other to sell all the wheat they had on hand, and now the difficulty has arisen that no one appears to know the source of the order to sell.
It was first attributed to the provincial police but these claim not to be responsible.

The Lord's Day Act.

The despatch from the Prime Minister announcing that the Lord's Day Act would not be amended this session corrects a report that was current a few days ago. It was reported that Sunday work on the farm and elsewhere would be allowed by the law in order to increase production during the war.

Such changes in the law seem to have been sought by some interests, but when the proposition was made public protests went to Ottawa from all directions. Not only the workmen but the farmers of the land and elsewhere prefer that the law remain as it is. Our information is that some of the immigrants from foreign countries expressed a desire for an open Sunday in the harvest time. The average farmer finds six days' harvest work in the week quite enough for him and his hired help. Besides the Act itself makes allowance for emergency work. The Lord's Day Act is the result of much consideration and many conferences. It is not an ecclesiastical measure, but humanitarian legislation, intended to secure for working people the measure of rest and recreation that the human constitution demands. It leaves the people free to worship, but does not compel them to devote the day or any part of it to religious duties. Thus the Act has the support of thousands who do not set a religious value on any particular day of the week. All believe that one day in the week should be free from any toil that can be avoided.
If the question were reopened it might be a long time before a measure could be enacted which is so satisfactory as the one now on the books.—Vancouver Province.
